

DÍA MUNDIAL DE LA ESTADÍSTICA

20.10.2015

DATOS MEJORES.
VIDAS MEJORES.

The United Nations General Assembly, in its resolution 69/282, decided to appoint the day 20 October 2015, as the second World Statistics Day. In this resolution the long history of official statistics is recognized, and the essential importance of the existence of a sustainable national statistical infrastructure to produce reliable and timely indicators of the progress of a country. It also highlights the critical role of official statistical information for quality analysis and making well-founded policy decisions in support of sustainable development.

The National Statistics Institute celebrates this day with acts that, recognizing the importance of the achievements, focus on the challenges that the statistics have, in order to keep providing the best service to the society, within a constant demand for more innovation, efficiency and quality.
